

IURC Together for Wildlife Research Call for Proposals

As part of the Together for Wildlife initiative (www.gov.bc.ca/togetherforwildlife), the Province of British Columbia is partnering with the Interior University Research Coalition (www.iurc.ca) on the delivery of a call for proposals to support graduate student-led research projects in British Columbia. This support will be competitive with NSERC-level scholarships and available for currently enrolled graduate students or those starting their research programs in September 2022 or January 2023. Competitive proposals will: (1) focus on key species and issues affecting BC wildlife stewardship; (2) bring together scientists, Indigenous communities, and wildlife stewardship managers as part of the research team; (3) support transparency, outreach, and engagement with the research and the results.

Up to six research grants will be awarded in the academic year of 2022-23 with the intake and adjudication of proposals occurring during the summer of 2022.

Please check back at www.iurc.ca in the coming weeks for further details on the application process.
